My dear Fanny

I should have written to you a week ago but I waited to see if any thing could be done towards Mr. or Mrs. Abbeys good opinion. How little we know what we may one day come to. If any one could have told me, a year ago that I should ever be angling for Mr. Abbeys good opinion. I should have been surprized - Miss Robinson is so seldom in town that I am obliged to wait weeks, before I can get hold of her, but today I went with her to call on Mrs Cornish, ^{to} whom I gave a prepping invitation to come and see me at Hampstead. Miss Robinson knows my reason for wishing her acquaintance and has promised to bring her some evening to drink tea which I hope will take place before she visits Walthamston where, though she has a prepping invitation she cannot go at present as she has a great wash coming. God help us! great washes, no doubt take place in other families but are never mentioned in company— And now my dear make the most of her if you see her. I am told she is very good natured. Of course we must be careful not to let her know our reasons for courting her so much—

Miss Bowers is the name of my other friend through whom perhaps something might be done by the Whitehursts, but though I am sure she would do any thing in her power, I do not like to ~~talk~~ say any thing to her about it. Miss ^{Robinson} has offered her services and it almost as much interested in the cause as I am.

she is very intimate with Mr. Whitehurst and I have no doubt will mention it to her, but Miss Thowen I believe knows that and perhaps you can make some use of her name - It is unlucky that the Gals have lately moved farther from you it may make you less intimate with her. My dearest girl I have written a short note but I came from town very late and tomorrow am going early to stay with Mr. Thowen so if you write to me within the week direct to No. 5 and the interest in the cause at home has been very intimate with that of Richard from you it is a very long time that I have not seen you and I have been very much interested in you and I have been very much interested in you
